

“Release Version of FMA™” Ontology License

Introduction

The FMA™ (also known as Digital Anatomist-Foundational Model of Anatomy) is a reference ontology for the domain of anatomy and is an active, curated ontology. It is an ongoing project under the supervision of Jose Mejino MD, the primary curator of the FMA™. The FMA™ was created and developed by Professor Cornelius Rosse MD DSc., Jose Mejino MD., Augusto V. Agoncillo MD., and Richard F. Martin Ph.D., in the course of research conducted at the University of Washington ("UW"). FMA™ development is supported by the research contributions of members of the Structural Informatics Group from the Department of Biological Structure, in the UW School of Medicine. The FMA™ was supported in part by federal funding from: National Library of Medicine (NLM) Contract 97-081/VMS, RO1 LM06822, RO1 LM006316 and Defense Advance Research Project Agency (DARPA) Contract W81XWH-04-2-0012.

UW is making the “Release Version of the FMA™” available consistent with NIH’s Research Tool Guidelines and other U.S. federal grants for which the FMA™ has been provided as a reference ontology.

The FMA™ Research Project website is the sole source of the “Release Version of the FMA” and is current as of the date it is downloaded from the FMA™ website. There is no charge for users to download the Release Version of the FMA™ at:

<http://fma.biostr.washington.edu/download>

The Release Version of the FMA™ is appropriate for all research and development activities. The “Release Version of the FMA™” Ontology is a snapshot of the FMA™ and it is current as of the date it is downloaded from the FMA™ web site.

FMA™ Master Ontology is a curated database and it is under constant revision. The FMA™ Research Project does not make the FMA™ Master Ontology available for distribution because the Master Version of the FMA™ includes work-in-progress, project documents and contributions which are under consideration and have not yet been accepted by the FMA™ Research Project.

This License permits access to the Release Version of the FMA™ and makes it possible for Licensees to use the Release Version of the FMA™ for research, educational and commercial activities.

Potential users of the FMA™ shall agree to the FMA™ License Agreement prior to downloading the Release Version of the FMA™ from UW.

The FMA™ License Agreement and user registration are available at the FMA™ Website at: <http://fma.biostr.washington.edu/register>

"Release Version of the FMA™"

Release File Format

The Release Version of the FMA™ is a snapshot of the FMA™ and is current as of the date it is downloaded from the FMA™ Research Project Website. The Release Version of the FMA™ is currently available in a form suitable for import into a MySQL database with a specific relational database schema in a standard Protégé database schema.

File Format Conversion

The FMA™ is file format independent. File format conversions, such as conversions of the FMA™ as a whole to an alternative representation (such as OWL or OBO) from its Release File Format, are not considered original works of authorship. Such conversions will likely include modifications, insertions, and/or deletions of FMA™ content as necessitated by the representational constructs provided by the target language. File format conversions may also be characterized by modifications intended to enhance the utility of the ontology, in the target language, that are not significant anatomical content modifications (i.e. introducing closure axioms when converting to an open-world model such as OWL).

Any distribution by the Licensee of File Format Conversion shall include "FMA™" and the goodwill associated with the FMA™ mark. The licensor shall inspect all goods using the mark for quality. As a condition of the quality control inspection, Licensee shall provide all relevant material related to File Format Conversions to FMA™ Research Project prior to distribution.

In naming the File Format Conversions, the title shall use FMA™ as the first element of the title. Examples of titles would be: "FMA™-OBO" or "FMA™-OWL."
